

purpose

Bluefield College strives to be a Christ-centered learning community, preparing innovative learners and transformational leaders to impact the world. One particular way students are transformed is through athletic programs. This golf tournament will provide essential funds necessary to support Bluefield College Athletics. Proceeds from this tournament will enable our student-athletes to compete at championship levels and to grow physically, mentally, and spiritually.

Not only do our student athletes display excellence on the field, but in academics and student leadership. Junior midfielder of the men's soccer team, Joey Waltz from Staunton, VA, displays self-discipline and passion as a student at Bluefield College.

Leading his teammates on and off the field, Waltz is an active leader of Bluefield College's Fellowship of Christian Athletes and a resident assistant in the residence halls.

"I think it is very important to show great character on the field, off the field, and in order to do that I keep striving towards my goals," said Waltz.

In addition to his graphic communications major, soccer, and student leadership roles, Waltz also displays a talented hand in art.
